Sheep, And More Counties, Qualify For Hay Drought Relief

S. Mason Carbaugh, Commissioner of the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Commerce, announced recently that the counties of Hanover, Dinwiddie, and Chesterfield have been added to the list of counties previously designated drought disaster areas in the Commonwealth of Virginia by the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration (FDAA).

These counties will now qualify for a federal subsidy for the cost of transportation for hay and silage. This brings the number of counties that currently qualify for drought relief assistance to 25. The new drought order, which was effective Nov. 30, 1976, also allows sheep producers in these counties to become eligible for the drought relief assistance programs.

The federal hay transportation assistance program, which is administered by the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), pays 80 percent of the freight cost for transporting hay to the affected areas. Assistance is limited to $12.50 per ton for silage and $50 per ton for hay or hay substitutes.

Governor Godwin, in his latest appeal to the FDAA, requested that sheep be included in the drought relief programs. Prior to this new order, only beef and dairy cattle producers were eligible for assistance.

Commissioner Carbaugh expressed the Department's appreciation to the Governor and to the various federal agencies involved, for their continued cooperation and support in obtaining the maximum possible assistance for Virginia's drought affected farmers.

Richmonder Named Lung Association Regional Director

A Viet Nam veteran and graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Taylor C. Wells of Richmond, has been appointed program director of the Virginia Lung Association's Tidewater Region. Dr. Forrest W. Pitts, VLA president and medical director of Blue Ridge Sanatorium, announced recently that Mr. Wells will assume duties in Newport News after completion of a brief training period at VLA headquarters in Richmond.

Before his recent appointment to the lung association post, Mr. Wells was director of health career program for the Virginia Council on Health and Medical Care. His five-year responsibilities with the council included educational programs in Virginia schools to inform students of opportunities available in health services, and working with the media to call attention to available training for future health careers for young people.

A member of the American Council on Health Manpower, the Peninsula Health Careers Committee, the Tidewater Health Careers Committee, and the Central Virginia Health Careers Council, Mr. Wells plans to incorporate these activities with those of the VLA Tidewater Youth Board of Directors. He is also a member of the Richmond and the Virginia Personnel & Guidance Associations, the Virginia Society for Hospital Public Relations, and the Richmond Host Lions Club.

As program director for the VLA Tidewater Region, which includes the counties of James City and York, and the cities of Hampton, Newport News, and Williamsburg, Mr. Wells will be responsible for programs such as the Life and Breath Clinc at Riverside Hospital in Newport News, where patients and their families are taught how to cope with lung disease problems. He will also work with the regional rehabilitation program, the CommonWealth Craft Guild, which provides classes to teach handicapped people a craft.

In commenting on his new position, Mr. Wells said, "I'm looking forward to working in the Tidewater area, where I hope to develop a strong volunteer corps for the lung association. They are needed for all activities, including fund raising events such as bowlathons and walkathons which support our projects aimed at the prevention and control of lung diseases.

"I invite anyone interested in assisting our efforts," he went on, "to call or come by the lung association regional office, 12258 Warwick Blvd., Newport News. The telephone number is 1-804-595-1184."

DUAL HERBICIDE IS LABELED FOR NUTSEDGE GRASSES IN CORN

Dual * 6E preemergency herbicide has received label acceptance from the Environmental Protection Agency for full-season control of most annual grasses, yellow nutsedge and certain broadleaf weeds in corn. Ciba-Geigy Corporation's new herbicide is registered for use alone and in tank mixes with AAtrex * 80W and 4L herbicide.

Used alone, Dual controls barnyardgrass (watergrass), crabgrass, fall panicum, foxtail millet, foxtails (gaint, green and yellow), pigweed, witchgrass, and yellow nutsedge. The tank mix with AAtrex also controls such weeds as cocklebur, lambsquarters, ragweed, smartweed, velvetleaf and many other problem weeds.

Mixing is easy with the emulsifiable concentrate liquid. Dual 6E will be marketed in five-gallon cans containing six pounds or active ingredient per gallon.

The chemical should be sprayed on the soil surface using a minimum of 15 gallons of water per acre. If rain is insufficient within seven days after application, Dual can be incorporated into the top one inch of soil using a rotary hoe or rolling cultivator.

The compound is cleared for use on corn grown for grain. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) prohibits using the material in 1977 on sweet corn, popcorn, or corn for grazing, fodder, or silage. Only corn may be planted on treated acreage during the following crop year. The chemical is not labeled in Wisconsin for 1977.
